Dear Friend:

For several months I have traveled the country talking with people about real solutions to real problems. People throughout this country are concerned about the erosion of the American Dream. They want homes in safe neighborhoods, with good schools for their children and grandchildren, and affordable health care for themselves and their families.

Our economic, educational, and social realities don't measure up to our ideals and, frankly, don't meet the competition for the future. America deserves better. We must have real leadership.

I have spent my career as Governor of Arkansas trying to help make this state and America a better place for us and our children. You have helped me in that endeavor.

That is why I would like you to be with me at:

NOON
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1991
THE OLD STATE HOUSE
LITTLE ROCK, ARKANSAS
(Rain Site: State Capitol Rotunda)

to talk about our future and my plans.

Sincerely,

Bill Clinton
